

Eduardo Azzati is a versatile musician with 30 years of experience as voice instructor, vocal coach, choral and instrumental conductor, singer, music educator and keyboardist.

During the late 80's and 90's he gained popularity as a soloist and choral conductor in his homeland, Argentina, where he directed many choral and orchestral ensembles and sang with important orchestras, including the National Symphony Orchestra.

During the 10-year period between 1987 and 1997, while still in Argentina, Mr. Azzati held many positions as a choral director in many different settings, including Elementary, Middle and High School, church and community. Among other positions Mr. Azzati was the Associate Conductor of the award-winning National Youth Choir of Argentina, Director of Choral Activities and Conductor of the award-winning choirs at the K-12 St. Agnes School, Director of Choral Activities and Conductor at the K-12 St. Andrew's School, Artistic Director and Conductor of Kantus, a college-age youth community chorus, and Director of the Chorale de L'Alliance Française of Martínez.

As a solo singer Mr. Azzati has performed many bass/baritone solo roles in most of the great sacred choral-orchestral works of Bach, Handel, Mozart, Haydn, Mendelssohn, etc. as well as the art songs of the German, French, British, American and Spanish repertoires. He also feels a strong connection with the American Music Theater genre and has taught it for decades.

Mr. Azzati has thirty years of experience as a voice instructor and coach both in the private studio setting as well as the collegial level. His teaching philosophy and approach are founded on the anatomical and physiological principles and mechanics of voice function and their specific application to the different music genres and styles.

Since 1998 Mr. Azzati has been on the music faculty at Moravian College in Bethlehem, PA, where he was the recipient of the 2005 T. Edgar Shields Prize for "excellence in studio teaching, contributions to music scholarship and participation in professional musical activities, and a quality relationship to music students." As a Moravian College Artist-Lecturer in Voice he teaches applied voice and voice-related curriculum. He is also currently a Part-Time Lecturer in Voice at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, PA.

Since 1999 Mr. Azzati has been the Director of Music at Yardley United Methodist Church, in Yardley, PA, where he directs the choirs (mostly from the keyboard), accompanies solo singers and instrumentalists as well as congregational singing, and provides keyboard music for all worship services.

Since 2013 he has been the Chorus Master of the Allentown Symphony Chorus, the chorus-in-residence with the Allentown Symphony Orchestra, with which he prepares for performance major works of the choral-orchestral repertoire.

Mr. Azzati holds a Bachelor's Degree in music with a specialization in conducting from Juan José Castro State Conservatory of Music, Buenos Aires, Argentina, and a Master's Degree in Voice Performance and Pedagogy from Westminster Choir College of Rider University, Princeton, NJ.

He is the co-founder, 2-term past president and current member of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

Mr. Azzati resides in Bethlehem with his wife Carole Burkhardt, also a singer and music educator, his three children, Mica, Lukas and Pablo and their short-haired German pointer/brown Lab mix, Hershey.