

Sister Willow

After performing one magical concert together in 2018, Sister Willow's three powerhouse lead vocalists, Abigail Zsiga, Chrissy Gardner, and Megan Chenot, decided that distance - no matter how great - shouldn't keep them from making music together. Their rare live shows showcase their masterful voices soaring over scorching, soulful original rock.

CHRISSEY GARDNER

ABIGAIL ZSIGA

MEGAN CHENOT

Chrissy Gardner is a composer, singer and pianist based in New Haven, CT. She has recorded two full length original contemporary albums, "Alabaster Room" (2009) and "Waxwing" (2018), with world renowned musicians. She is a co-founding member of A Broken Umbrella Theatre for whom she has composed music for seven original productions. Chrissy has written, arranged, produced and engineered music for documentaries, promotional videos, industrials and fellow musicians. Chrissy performs weekly at clubs and piano bars, taking the challenge to play any crazy request that comes her way. In her home studio, she teaches private piano lessons to 20 awesome young musicians. www.chrissygardner.com

British born Abigail Zsiga is an internationally acclaimed recording artist, writer and performer. Her early career saw her travel the world in support of several chart-topping club anthems such as "Let The Joy Rise", "If It Don't Fit" and "You Set Me Free". Several of Abigail's releases made top 10 on the Billboard Club Play Charts, two of which made it to the coveted #1 spot. In more recent years, Abigail has been writing, recording and performing a much more stripped down acoustic style of music that allows her voice to be showcased to its fullest and captures her audience with its haunting and honest expression. In 2004 she released her acoustic album "Home... Again" to much critical acclaim, the lead single "Better With You" becoming a radio favorite and was licensed for the TV show "Royal Pains". Abigail relocated back to the UK in 2017 and continues to perform regularly in and around London.

After traveling the world as the lead singer for New England R&B and swing legends Eight to the Bar for seven years, Megan (who performs under the moniker Chenot) joined forces with her brother, drummer David Keith, to create the original indie pop band Mission Zero. Simultaneously, she was performing and arranging music for the cover duo David & Chenot, as well as The Keith & Mazer Trio (called "the best bar band in the world" by the Advocate), with whom she played in Turks & Caicos, Cancun, and the Dominican Republic as the "house band" for Club Med. Now a full-time solo artist in the San Francisco Bay Area, her recent work as a solo singer/guitarist includes gear demos for Sennheiser and BOSS at NAMM 2018, and VIP Lounge performances for Live Nation before concerts by Richard Marx, Rick Springfield, and John Mayer. www.megankeithchenot.com